Chris

We had a hell of track team this year and will have a kick-ass football team next year with 2/3 of the team juniors. Man, there's a lot of good memories but then there's some that sucked like the night with Candy + Cheryl (bitch)!! Well stay cool (like me) and party and get fucked

Christopher Raymond Kuhn I Ha Ha

P.S.
Candy's a stuck-up slut too.!!

Chris. Chris Ohman

It's been nice knowing you these past few years! How come you grew so much and I didn't? (tee hee) I hope we have classes together next year because you're such a nice guy. Love, Kellie Henderson

P.S. Have a Great Summer!

CHRIS - TO HPER
I don't know that you don't know but you've been a great friend, its been a great year, and I know we've both had a lot of fun.
I'm really glad that we've become such good friends this year. I feel like I could talk to you about virtually anything
You're fun all our talks
Thanks for all our talks
Don, and I hope you're helped you with your writing machine. You're really a special person.
I hope I see you a lot next summer, make a point to do it!
Friends always!
Melissa

Chris,
Arts been great this all that carveing and carveing; Harder and harder and faster and faster.
It was breath taking! Your a great guy and a lot of fun! Well have to get together and have some fun haha!!

Love always
Chris Fowler '84

P.S.
Hope you live
a happy life, get laid, and die. all in that order.

Chris,
The year wouldn't have been such a roach if it wasn't for you. God, I'll never forget the night at Slutt-Hutt (Pott-Pott) when you showed up with those glasses. I even put that in my senior memories. Shit, that was a fry-night. Thanks for the help (if you know what I mean) I couldn't have got home without you. Well, my most sincere fare-well to a purple metallic fleet-wood frog of wonders in his shoe-box motel of unspeackable nasty things. Keep in touch. dont fuck up. Take care of my sis. O.K. You two were made for each other.
Good luck,

Chris,

It's hard to believe we've made it through four years together. You've helped a lot in making them most enjoyable! I'll never forget all of our little talks, and funny little notes in Geometry. I just pray that we'll both pass the dang class. "I. W. Y. B. !!!" "L. H. S. T. S.". You're one of my most spicail friends, I love you dearly! We had so many great times together! I had so much fun at the Lambda dance, and cruising in your car, babysitting and playing "Monster" with my cousins, and just when you would come over to visit, even though the real reason I figure you came over was for my spagetti supper, cake, hot dogs, fries, and cokes, in other words food! But I want you to come over a lot this summer! I think this is really going to be a great summer and I want you to be a great part of it! I want to wish you a lot of luck with Stephanie! But don't forget the others in your life, like me! Next year will be study Juniors, sounds great to me! Hope we have Algebra II together next year, that will make 5 years of Math together I Love You,

Melinda

Chris.
Well another years over and Im so glad I've gotten to know you. This summers gonna be great. Im sure we'll see you alot over at Elizabeths! This years really been fun and Im glad you a Steph are still together. Well have to plan some wild parties this summer at the lake so Take Care and I'll see ya!

Love ya

The morning struggle begins our way of life

It is another Monday morning: the day students have dreaded all weekend. Waking up to the sound of a blaring alarm brings back thoughts of unfinished homework and upcoming tests. Students try to decide if they are catching a cold or maybe a sore throat, so they won't have to go to school. By the time the decision is made it is 8 o'clock. They dash into the bathroom for a quick shower, throw on a pair of jeans and a sweat shirt and go into the kitchen for breakfast, only to find the usual piece of toast.

Trying to get into a car and starting it can be a challenge with toothbrush and breakfast in hand. Once the car is started many people realize that they left all their books inside. After running back to get the books, they glance at the clock. It is 8:30 a.m. They try to make it to school before the tardy bell rings or it will be another 15 minutes after school.

Gossiping, cruising, eating, and practicing mark before school moments

"Up in the morning and off to school; the teachers are teaching the golden rule." The teachers weren't the only ones up and ready for the day. Students were also preparing themselves for the day ahead and having some fun, too.

Everyone seemed to have different habits before school which became part of his or her lifestyle. The marching band practiced every morning to look good for entertainment at the football games. The Lassies, Vikettes, and Flag Corps practiced along with the band to perfect their skills. By the end of the year it paid off, whether in winning ribbons and trophies or just feeling the self-satisfaction of a job well done.

Parkview students found that before school was a good time for just about anything. Congregating at McDonald's was popular and fun, though it wasn't the only place students gathered to catch up on gossip. The Student Center, the library and the patio were full of students finding out what was going on in each other's life.

Students could be seen cruising in cars every morning. Some were showing off and others were looking for some excitement to start off their day. Others stayed in front of the mirror making themselves look good for the day. Whether it was cruising, gossiping, or practicing, it was the before-school way of life for Parkview students.

Assemblies add spice to the academic day

The day goes wearily along, as the classes drag toward the end of the day. Different activities such as spirit days, student council activities, and, of course, classes take place during the course of the week. A great variety of classes is offered, ranging from woodworking to micro-computer mathematics. Some people look forward to these classes, while others would have more fun wrestling a 16-foot python.

Assemblies are an important part of the everyday life. These events, such as fall sports assembly and pep rallies, help break up the monotony and lend excitement to the tedious school day. These assemblies, though short and hard to come by, are enjoyed by most. For some, these activities provide cherished moments away from the studious life.

After school includes jobs, activities, and good times with friends

During the school day each individual looks forward to something different; however, all students have one thing in common: awaiting the final bell of the day at 3:35. As soon as that bell rings a swarm of students is seen rushing toward the doors.

Some students stay at school for Student Council, football, volleyball, basketball, track, Canterbury Club, or any number of other school activities. Others go to the Student Center to socialize and catch up on the latest gossip.

Still others head for home to do a quick transformation into a working person and head for numerous after school jobs. Students earn money by working at McDonald's, Burker King, or other fast food places. Others work at clothing or shoe stores while some students enjoy technical work such as dental assistance or TV repair.

Yet others go to the nearest arcade to play their favorite video games such as Galaxian, Pac Man, or Defender.

Every student has a different life after school, but in one way or another they still live the Parkview way of life.

Weekends: time for fun, friends, and easy life

Whew! Finally it's time for a little relaxation and easy life. School's out; it's the weekend. Students look forward to the magnificent event from Monday until Friday. What do students do with all of this free time? Some find wonderful quiet moments with that special someone at a movie or at dinner. Still others decide to have a rowdy life and hit the parties. Some just relax at home in front of the T.V.; others relax by sleeping. Some students, however, find lots of energy to have good times with their friends. Easy life is fun, but it's Sunday. Tomorrow, it's time again to hit the books and look forward to the next weekend.

Viking Day projects "A Touch of Nostalgia"

"A Touch of Nostalgia" was the theme for Viking Day 1982. Student Council sponsored many events leading up to the celebration that emphasized the '20's theme. Bow Tie and Bead Day, Black Tuesday and Garter Day were spirit days. The annual homecoming assembly introduced the fall sports participants and the Viking Day royalty. The gym walls were decorated in night-time city skylines and Al Capone and his gang made an appearance for the skit. During the halftime of the Parkview-Rolla game the 1982 Homecoming Queen LeAnn McMasters was crowned by Tom Reichert, student body president. The attendants arrived on the field in Model-T cars. "This is the third homecoming I have been to and it was better because more people were there. There was a lot of excitement before the dance, and the decorations were really good, but most of all everyone seemed to have a good time," said senior Amy Pyle.

Viking Day royalty reigns over festivities

Viking Day was a busy and active time for Parkview students, but for nine girls it was more than that.

On Oct. 20, freshmen, sophomores, and juniors each voted for two girls to represent their classes during Viking Day.

Freshmen chose Amy Gould and Carol Rotenberry to represent their class. Amy was a member of the girls' golf team and Carol was on the junior varsity volleyball team.

"I felt very honored to represent my class," said Amy.

The two sophomores chosen by their class to take part in Viking Day were Paige Salveter and Rhonda Romines. Paige was a member of the tennis team and was a Vikette. Rhonda was in French Club and also took stats for the football team.

Tammi Kennedy and Connie Grogan were the two junior attendants. Both were active as cheerleaders and student council representatives.

Senior attendants Michele Lilly and Janet Voet were chosen by the entire student body. Michele was the Lassie majorette and a member of French Club. Janet was a varsity cheerleader and FBLA member.

LeAnn McMasters, the 1982 Viking Day Queen, was captain of the Vikettes and a member of choir and FBLA.

Helen Vanderbilt presented LeAnn with her crown and a dozen roses. She received a royal kiss from Student Body President Tom Reichert.

Organizations, sports, and activities create

OUR ACTIVE LIVES

Our active lives kept us busy at PHS, but they also provided us with the fun and excitement that went with being in high school. Every student wanted to be involved in the various clubs and activities whether it was the school musical, athletics, or the Canterbury Club. Band and chorus brought about a challenge with a lot of hard work, and a sense of pride for every member. The homecoming festivities and the senior prom provided extra enthusiasm to highlight the year.

Many students' activities involved showing their athletic talent in various sports. In the fall the boys showed their grid-iron strength and determination on the football field. The girls involved in volleyball and cross country showed the same strength and determination. As one season ended, a new season brought with it different sports.

Clubs such as Canterbury Club and French Club allowed members to attend theatrical presentations. Science Club members learned the dynamics and basics of physical science. Photography Club members sharpened their photographic skills. Activities, whether athletic, musical, or technical, enriched our active lives.

World's Fair gives band incentive to succeed

As they click onto the field to that familiar cadence, the Marching Band performs for the waiting crowd. At the Hound Dog Festival in Aurora they received a one rating, and they also received a first place in the SMSU Homecoming Parade. Over the summer, the band marched in the World's Fair Parade at Knoxville, Tenn.

Twirling and furling: Flag Corps performs

It didn't matter if the weather was warm or cold, the Flag Corps would practice outside. The Flag Corps spent many hours preparing for its performances this year. One of its most popular performances was "Spanish Flea." This performance, and several others were seen at football and basketball games, assemblies, and other events outside school.

Vikettes achieve number one ratings

Did you ever wonder who those girls were you saw practicing in the gym lobby? Well, those girls are the Vikettes. The Vikettes held two honors this year. They received first place at the Hound Dog Festival in Aurora and also Best Pom-Pon Squad in the SMSU Field Competition. These girls spent long hours of practice to achieve such awards. They also performed at many football and basketball games, assemblies, and other local events.

Lassies represent Viking spirit

The Lassies have always been a respected group of the PHS student body. Students show their respect by standing when the Lassies enter the gym during assemblies, and march onto the football field or basketball court. The Lassies marched in the Walnut Festival in Stockton and the SMSU Homecoming Parade. They took first place at Stockton.

Three cheering squads bolster school spirit

Cheerleaders have always added thrills and excitement to sporting events, and the Parkview cheerleaders were no exception. Attending every game, they were always spirited, always loyal. The sophomore cheerleaders led the support for the wrestling squad and freshman football and basketball games. The junior varsity girls helped out the J.V. sports teams. They were also active in helping other squads. The varsity cheerleaders, led by captain Janet Voet, were outstanding in cheering on the varsity teams. All three cheerleading squads lent spirit by painting signs, having bake sales and holding pep rallies. The cheerleaders definitely added to the Parkview way of life.

Gridders fight hard for season's .500 mark

The Parkview Vikings, led by Coach Benny Lawson, had a 3-7 season but played better than their record showed. Playing against four teams that went to the state competition in 4A, the young team showed great agressiveness and style. Only one senior player, John Grier, was on the offensive starting line. Mark Lawson, who started at the quarterback position, had 135 attempts with 44 successful throws. The Jess Newton Award was received by Mitch Martin for his outstanding work on the defensive line.

Players prove devotion to coach, team, sport

Outstanding plays, cheering fans, and bitter winds all made up the traditional football season. Parkview, of course, was an important part of this annual period. The Vikings showed impressive spirit during the 1982-83 season. Players were especially excited about the Glendale and Kickapoo games. Although the Vikings lost both, the scores were close and made the loyal fans proud.

Girls' netters defeat all but one city rival

Behind the new coach, Mrs. Andrea McCormack, the Girls' Tennis team had a winning season again. Their record of 9-5, was the best in the city. The only city team to beat them was Glendale at the beginning of the season, by a close margin of 4½ to 4. But when they met again, Parkview was the victorious team with a big score of 7-0. With only two seniors graduating, the team will be experienced and can look forward to another good season next year.

State championship caps great golf season

Last year, the Girls' Golf team placed second in state competition. Everyone said good. This year, though, everyone said great because the team's dream came true. The team of Kim Applegate, Tina Murray, Cindy Shook and Vicki Woodall, all seniors, won the state title. Under the coaching of Mr. Jerry Gobetz, they had a perfect record of 10-0 including big wins such as the SMSU Relays, conference, and districts. The team not only lost the four starting seniors, but also Pam Downs who graduated. One junior and three freshmen will move up to fill the holes.

The Spiking Vikings started off their season on a winning note by taking first in the Central Invitational and ended the season with an overall record of 12-9. Highlights of their season were beating Glendale in the Ozark Conference to place third and placing second in district play.

Junior varsity started by losing four of their first five games but they won six of their last eight regular season games, They also beat Hillcrest and Kickapoo in close games. JV ended their season at 9-9.

Freshman ended their season 2-4-2. A highlight was winning over Kickapoo in second game of the season.

Assemblies and contests give vocal groups their shining moments

As usual, Choir, Madrigal, and the Girls' Chorus performed brilliantly in assemblies. Mrs. Evelyn Struble directed and worked with these groups throughout the year. At the Thanksgiving Assembly, Choir did three songs in succession and to conclude the assembly, they lead the entire student body in the singing of Parkview's school song. To help ring in Christmas they sang outside of classrooms and gave everyone the holiday spirit. The Girls' Chorus entered various competitions and always placed near the top. Their voices could also be heard at Christmas and at certain assemblies. Madrigal also gave Parkview something to be proud of. Their performances anywhere were always done in grand style.

Instrumental ensembles teach discipline, joy

Discipline and determination are two main elements in the success of a musician. The Orchestra, led by Mr. Bob Holden, played in the Thanksgiving Assembly as well as other assemblies. The Symphonic Band included Marching Band members. After the marching season was over, the band members met every morning first hour to practice for upcoming concerts. Concert Band was a group of students who played at several concerts throughout the year.

Pep, Pit score success

The Pit Orchestra was a group of talented students who performed in this year's fall musical comedy, "Calamity Jane." Jazz Band I and II attended jazz festivals and performed at assemblies. "I thought Pep Band was a lot of fun plus a good experience to people that love music," stated sophomore Cathy Sewell. Pep Band provided halftime entertainment between Jayvee and varsity basketball games. They promoted spirit and enthusiasm at the basketball games.

Deadwood comes alive on the Parkview stage

Comedy never seemed so real as in the fall musical "Calamity Jane" presented by PHS actors and actresses. The cast and crew enjoyed the excitement of performing but also enjoyed having a good time meeting people and joking around. Behind the scenes one might have gained a slightly different perspective as explained by Stacye Scott, who was the stage director. "There were a lot of practical jokes played on the cast by the crew that the audience never saw," said Ms. Scott. Despite what goes on behind the curtain, the critics and pleasure seekers catch the polished displays of talent. The PHS Drama Department was led by Mrs. Sharon Kelley. Mrs. Evelyn Struble also provided help in the musical by having her vocal students add to the performance. Mr. Bob Holden's Pit Orchestra provided the musical entertainment for "Calamity Jane."

Dramatics produce acting, talent, skill

Acting for a grade in class or helping put on the fall musical show that members of drama class and club all work to perform. Drama Club helped build the set for the fall musical, "Calamity Jane." They sorted and went through costumes, they painted signs, and sets, they did lighting and make-up, and they put out a lot of hard work to help the musical to be a success. Drama Club held regular meetings and socials and discussed going to New York to attend plays. The sponsor of Drama Club was Mrs. Sharon Kelley.

National Forensics aids political awareness

Resolved: "The United States should significantly curtail its arms sales to other countries." This is the topic that the Speech and Debate teams worked hard on and faced tough competitors for during the school year. The topic took a lot of research and a lot of work to prepare to attack other debaters with good rebuttals and good cross examinations. The advanced speech team placed first overall at Kansas City Center High School and the novice team placed first in individual sweepstakes. The strong individual events this year were girls' extemporaneous speaking, dramatic interpretation, humorous intterpretation, and oratory. Parkview speech and degate squad hosted a tournament at Parkview February 4 and 5. Schools from the district and state were represented.

Publications capture moments to remember

Journalism II students worked hard this year to publish 19 issues of The Parkviewer, and the 1983 Viking Log. The Viking Log was sold in a one-day sales campaign this year during which a representative from the Taylor Publishing Company presented an assembly and slide show. The yearbook staff also planned other events to help boost yearbook sales. They held Fuzzy Day to kick off Memory Wuppet sales. The wuppet sales proved to be a success with over 575 sold. At the Viking Day Assembly, yearbook editor Katy Sipe drew a receipt stub for a free yearbook. The winner was Carol Boyts. The Parkviewer was under the direction of Editor-in-Chief Julie Hill. Everyone on the newspaper staff worked hard to write stories, type rough drafts, and meet deadlines. Mrs. Judy Wilson, advisor, helped Journalism 1 students produce issue number 17 of The Parkviewer as their practice paper in preparation for the work ahead of them in Journalism II.

Hard work produces outstanding effects

"Foundation to Build On" was the theme for the Student Council Workshop, sponsored by Cabinet. Cabinet put out many hours of hard work in order to produce Spirit Days, Biking Day, and workshops. Cabinet held a three-day retreat during the summer at Lindenlure to brainstorm ideas and themes for the coming year. Student Council members attended meetings and brought up bills and new ideas to improve the school. They also served on such committees as poll workers, art committee, and assembly committee. The members of Student Council attended the Parkview workshop and participated in a "mock" student council. Members also attended a district workshop at Hillcrest.

Workers ease clerical, library, kitchen jobs

Most students took study halls to study, but some students gave up this time to become office, cafeteria, and library workers. An office worker would start out the hour by picking up all of the absent slips on his or her assigned hall then deliver passes for Dr. Beach, Mr. Jenkins, Mrs. Schuck, Mr. Kohr or the counselors. A typical library worker started his or her hour by checking in due books or helping Mr. Buyan or Mrs. Jacobsen put books on the shelf. Then he or she helped teach the freshmen English classes how to use the library. Cafeteria workers spent an hour and a half a day, five days a week in the cafeteria and got paid .25 an hour. The average cafeteria worker began the lunch hour by doing anything from stacking trays to filling glasses with ice for iced tea. When the students lined up for lunch, the workers took money and made sure the spoons and forks were always out. All of these student workers helped make the work load easier for teachers, administrators, cooks, and students.

Boots, shades, and E. T. mark special events

Assemblies and special days were put on by Cabinet and other school organizations to break up the monotony of everyday school life. Cabinet sponsored special days to promote student participation in events such as Homecoming and athletic events. Bow Tie and Bead Day, Black Tuesday, and '20's Day were held the week preceding Viking Day. At the Thanksgiving assembly a certificate for the best Turkey Legs was awarded to Mr. Bob Bilyeu and the assemblies commissioner Lori Smith started the tradition of singing the school song. During the Christmas season, each class was assigned a hall and theme and decorated it accordingly. Sophomores placed first with the theme "Ho! Ho! Hawaii." Cabinet also sponsored a Red and Green Day on Dec. 22. At the Christmas assembly the deaf students stood in front of the choir to sing carols using sign language. Elliot, the Grinch, Alvin and the Chipmunks, and Santa Clause tried to explain the true meaning of Christmas to E.T.

We pledge our hearts to thee
Dear Parkview High
In love and loyalty
Hail Parkview High
Wherever our paths may lead
Whatever our futures hold
We'll carry standards high
Thy colors, green and gold
So once more raise a cheer
For friendships strong and true
For all that we hold dear
To thee - hail Parkviews.

JV, frosh use year to gain experience

The boys' JV basketball team started the season a little slow but on Jan. 8 against Glendale in the Viking's gym the squad showed few of their earlier problems. The game was close all the way, but the Vikes were able to pull away with a 54-52 victory. Coach Bob Crawford commented that the game was a good team effort and the teams were well balanced. The team was paced by juniors Eric Lumley and Steve Stiles. The freshmen squad worked hard and had a good year while preparing for JV and varsity play. Coach Bob Cooper felt the team needed to build confidence and that the season opener was one of their strongest games. The first half was close with Parkwood trailing 16-10 at the intermission. Parkview played a strong third quarter highlighted by 10 points from sophomore John Woods.

Parkview-Kickapoo match nets Viking victory

A near capacity crowd witnessed one of the strongest inter-city rivalrys between Parkview and Kickapoo at the Vikings gym on January 14. Kickapoo took an early 10-5 lead in the first quarter, then Parkview knotted the game at 21. Late in the first half Parkview was sparked when the Chiefs' leading scorer got in foul trouble and senior Randy Bachus made key steals to lead the Vikings to seven unanswered points, taking a 28-23 lead at halftime. In the second half, the fired-up Chiefs came charging back as Parkview scored the first four points but then were outscored 12-2 for the rest of the period to make the score 34-33 in the Vikings' favor. In the fourth quarter play was slow until the Chiefs hit a shot to tie up the game at 39. Then Mike Wheeler, who scored 16 points for the Vikings, got the next two baskets to give Parkview a four-point margin. Parkview hit five of six free throws in the last minute to clinch the victory and make the final score 48-41.

Win over Lady Falcons sparks girls' season

The highlight of the Girls' Varsity basketball team was the win over Glendale for the first time since 1980. Parkview carried the lead for most of the game, but fell behind in the fourth quarter. At the end of regulation play the score was tied at 65-65. In overtime the Vikings hit 11 of 12 free throws, thanks to senior Karyn Neeley's perfect 7 for 7. Karyn went on to lead the team with 23 points followed by junior Kim Grace's 19 and senior Susan Mullins' added 14. Coach Susan Provance felt that Kim Grace was the team leader and was an all-around good player. Susan Mullins was a strong inside player and had a definite influence on the team. Karyn Neeley was a strong rebounder and her best show was the hook shot. Player Cindy Shook had good outside shooting and senior Kim Applegate was an excellent point guard.

Grapplers pin foes; soccer team scores

The world's oldest sport, wrestling, is often the most strenuous and exhausting sport of modern times. Going into a six-minute match took a lot of preparation. The wrestling team practiced every night until 6:30 with stretching, drills, running, and weightlifting taking up most of the time. With the coming of a new coach, Mr. Terry Clayton, team spirit increased tremendously. Doug Barksdale and Doug Gere were team captains. "Next year the team may prove to be the best in town," said Eric Hassani. Most of the team consisted of juniors and seniors. The Parkview soccer team had a very successful season last fall. The team came out with a perfect record. The team played eight games and was undefeated. The captains of the team were Sung Moon and Brian Cunningham. Scott Lackey was the coach.

French and Latin Clubs develop foreign skills

French Club was a very active club this year. They spent time as did other language clubs trying to promote foreign language classes. The club, along with Spanish students, went to Fremont Manor during Christmas to sing carols. They formed a committee to revise the constitution which was outdated. The French Club also held a T-shirt contest which was open to anyone. The first prize was a T-shirt, and everyone who submitted an entry received a button. Mrs. Annis said of the club, "The people who were involved were involved 100% and really enjoyed it, but we would like to encourage more students to participate." The Latin Club was also very active this year. They held monthly meetings, including some in which they did such things as play nonscio, a vocabulary game, and play bingo and eat pizza. They held their Latin Club banquet decked out in togas.

FHA, NHS, Canterbury add spice to Parkview

Future Homemakers of America was a club basically was run from the classroom. FHA was sponsored by Mrs. Jan Cameron. The club and classes participated in such things as a Christmas tea, a mock wedding, and many full course dinners. National Honor Society was a national club of academic excellence. Members of the club were chosen by faculty members and administration based on four criteria. Those criteria included specific grade point average, proof of service, good character and quality of leadership. The NHS was composed of juniors and seniors. Canterbury Club was an English club in which members held a Procrastinators' Christmas party in January. They exchanged paperback books. The club went to the play Cabaret, and as their project bought a magazine subscription for the library.

Key and Anchor clubs serve the community

Key Club participated in a number of service oriented projects including selling tickets at the Ozark Empire Fair, working at the Kiwanis run, and delivering Christmas baskets. The special part of the year was being able to purchase a washer and dryer for the children's home. The club also took part in the muscular dystrophy volleyball tournament and the annual Mo-Ark District Convention. Anchor Club was established as a girls' service club. The girls served at the teachers' breakfast at PHS and attended a salad supper at Glendale. With both of these service-oriented groups at PHS next year should be a busy and profitable year.

FBLA and DECA teach students about working

Future Business Leaders of America was one of the biggest activity groups. The members supplied flowers for the teachers for open house. The sponsors also provided a new project called shadowing. This project allowed students to spend a half day at a business of their choice. DECA was an outside activity for COE students. DECA is one of the largest youth organizations in the U.S. Projects included The World's Greatest Volleyball Game, an employer-employee banquet in March at the Sheraton, and district, state, and national contests. Finalists in these competitions went to New Orleans to compete in events that pertained to their jobs. DECA also enjoyed picnics and a Showbiz Pizza fun night.

Clubs and intramurals provide enjoyment

Photography Club, which had not been active for four or five years, was reactivated. The club took a field trip to Lawrence Photo and to the Springfield Art Museum. Photo Club also learned how to print and develop film. A person in intramural basketball was often not very friendly first hour because the games began at 7:00 a.m. After an hour of basketball in the wee hours of the morning, many didn't want to face a day of school.

Interest, intent spark baseball enthusiasm

The baseball team finished its 1982 year with a record of 9 and 5. The members of the team played well and had a lot of fun. Senior Mitch Martin said of the new season, "I am sure that this season will hold a lot of ups and downs, but as long as everyone has fun, that's all that counts." Brian Romines, also a senior said, "I think this year will be a totally different year because we lost seven starters. It will be a rebuilding year, but we're looking forward to the challenge."

Boys' tennis and golf live on court, green

The Parkview Tennis team, with 14 members, was a large group during the 1981-82 school year. The team as a whole was successful at both doubles and singles. The team finished with an overall record of 10-5. The team for 1981-82 only had two graduating seniors, which made the 1982-83 season a much more experienced team. The Parkview golf team for the 1981-82 season was also a success. The team had 10 members, sending one to state. This person was Tom Saladin, and he received 7th in state competition. There were seven members returning for the 1982-83 season. Junior Kenneth Dugger commented, "I think that we'll do a lot better during the '82-'83 season. A lot of people are coming back this season that lettered last season. I think we'll improve enough to qualify a team for state."

Girls and boys splash to state in swimming

The boys' and girls' swim teams had successful years in the pool. The boys qualified two for state competition. Those two were Shane Hawkins in the 200-meter freestyle and the 200-meter individual medley, and the breaststroke, and Jerry Moore in diving. Both of these qualifiers were seniors. The season ended with the last meet on Valentines Day. Sophomore swimmer Brent Wise said, "Swimming is the best sport ever, and I am looking forward to next year a lot." The girls' season started with the first practice on February 28. Of the season, Robin Carr said, "I'm looking forward to swimming another season. It's a lot of work, but it's also a lot of fun."

1982 girls' track team sends five to state

The 1982 girls' track season was a successful one. The early season practices all paid off as five girls went to state. From late November through March, when the track season started, the girls practiced hard. They came in before school at 6:30 every morning. Often they would run through the halls and would work out on the weights. Some of the girls went even further and would run laps at SMSU on the week-ends. Seniors Melinda Scroggins, Tracy Stone, and Lorie Tracy, along with Sophomores Debbie Stone and Annette Vassar, went to state. Melinda made state in the triple jump, Lorie in the 800 meter run and Annette made it as an alternate in the shot put. Sisters Debbie and Tracy made state in the two-mile relay and were first in conference. Lorie set six Parkview records. Mr. Terry Clayton was the coach for the girls.

Six school records set by '82 men tracksters

In 1982, the boys' track season was a success. That spring there were six new school records set by three seniors and one junior. Among the big wins for the team were the CMSU Relays, Ozark Conference, district state meet, sectional state meet, second in the SMSU relays, third in the Norse relays and sixth in the 4A state meet. Graduates Joe Close and Jeff Chism had two new school records each. Close set his in the shot put and the discus. Chism's records were in the long jump and the triple jump. Junior Phil Harris also set a school record in the 300-meter hurdles. Another graduate, Bill Jasinski, was state high jump champion with a new record of 7'3". He was the nation's leading high school high jumper and was first in the Golden West Invitational meet. His jump was the fourth all-time best in the nation. The 1982-83 cross country team did well, though it was smaller than ususal. It had only 11 boys and one girl. They were coached by Mr. Ken Norton.

OUR INDIVIDUAL LIVES

Even when surrounded by 1400 people, PHS students retained their individuality. As a whole, Parkview excelled in many areas such as sports, activities, and leadership. The girls' golf team placed first in state and Kim Applegate placed third individually. In football, senior Mitch Martin was named to the Springfield! Magazine All-City Team and was also awarded the Jesse Newton Memorial. John Grier was named outstanding senior lineman. In activities such as speech and debate, the year's squad won many individual honors. In Kansas City, Theresa Brown placed third in oratory and Helen Vanderbilt received a third place in Lincoln Douglas Debate. In the fall Cabinet held a student council workshop. They had group council discussions on ideas for projects and dances. Elections commissioner Patrick McCartney and Student Body President Tom Reichert spent a week at Texas Christian University at a national leadership training center.

Seniors: on the way up, out, and ahead

Three years of being an underclassman had one benefit — becoming a SENIOR. The senior year is a very hectic one with decisions plaguing the whole year. Deciding whether to take the ACT or SAT, going on to college or getting a job, or wearing a blue or white dress to prom were some of the choices seniors had to make. Each decision seemed harder than the previous one, but it was not all hard work. Being a senior meant having a lot of fun, also. Going to football and basketball games, and doing things with friends preceded the highlight of the year: Graduation Day.

Working with the senior class was just one of the jobs Mr.Kenneth Fredrickson had. His job included counseling troubled students, checking credits for each senior, writing letters of recommendation, and many other tasks that went unnoticed.

Mr. Fredrickson started his teaching career in Rolla for one year. He taught in Springfield for two years and in St. Louis County for a semester before going to graduate school. Mr. Fredrickson taught at Central for five years and has been at Parkview since the second year the school was opened.

Mr. Fredrickson preferred teaching over an industrial job because there is a variety of things to do. Mr. Fredrickson did not stress going to college, but encouraged some students to check trade schools. Mr. Fredrickson liked counseling more than administration-type jobs.

Friends make school worthwhile

After having spent four years at Parkview High School, the seniors had been at school for 5,760 hours and 720 days. They had attended 39 varsity football games for a total of $78 for tickets, and 92 basketball games for a total of $184 for tickets. Seniors had eaten 720 school lunches and at 95¢ a lunch they had spent $684. The Lassies had marched in 16 parades. A senior that had one semester of Word Study had taken 54 tests. A typical senior had walked 720 miles in his or her four years at Parkview. Seniors had spent $360 on cokes at McDonald's after school and gone to 72 midnight movies. The class of '83 had received 76 issues of The Parkviewer and spent $58 for four Viking Logs. Many things were taken for granted such as 3,620 sheets of notebook paper. They also made 2,100 trips to their lockers.

Before their first performance, Katy Sipe, Mary Meyer and Michele Lilly clown around in front of Michele's house.

After school, seniors Devron Robinson, Darran Kinney, Cal Pike, Doug Gere, and Doug Barksdale discuss their plans for the night.

Why are friends important?

"When I think of friendship I think of fun things, getting rowdy, and being with people I like." — Doug Barksdale.

"Without friends you couldn't make it through high school because they help you out when you need them." — Devron Robinson.

Juniors:
on the move

Juniors have had a year full of busy activities with ordering class rings, scheduling for their senior year, and making sure they have all their credits to graduate the upcoming year. Aside from all of their busy work, they found time for fun and friends whether it was going to the midnight movie, Battlefield Mall or just being together on the weekends.

It was hard being a junior at first because they were at the point in high school where they weren't considered a lower classman and not accepted as an upperclassman with the seniors still around.

Helping students and listening to their problems are just part of the responsibilities of being a counselor at P.H.S. Junior counselor, Mr. Jerry Anderson, often arrived at school to find someone waiting at his door to change his or her schedule. Being a counselor doesn't just mean helping high school students with their school work, but it also means helping them with their social problems and dealing with anything from friends to family matters. Mr. Jerry Anderson became junior counselor when Mrs. Betty Israel went to Study Junior High School. The students were very pleased with Mr. Anderson. "I really feel that Mr. Anderson tried to help his students and compromised with them to get the best classes which would help them with their later life," stated junior Frank Reynolds.

Great music provides life's great times

Students liven up their spare time with television and listening to music and more music. Some of the favorites this year, '82-'83, were the Rolling Stones, Loverboy, Billy Squire, Van Halen, and, of course, Pat Benatar who rocked Springfield in early November. The radio promoted the music that boosted sales high among teenagers who bought records and tapes. The year also was filled with local bands that gave concerts such as at Park Central. The Misstakes, Fools Face, and one of Parkview's own, Legacy, played at some parties and local pubs. The year was full of all kinds of music for everyone to enjoy.

One step away from the top

The year is over and being a senior is just around the corner. That feeling of being the one and only upperclassman has arrived.

Class of '85 finds fun

The year of 1983 was not all work for the Class of '85. The sophomores, once being content with slumber parties and going to movies with friends, found other means of entertainment. The year of '83 was one for the "car date." No longer did the parents drive students to the theaters or pizza parlors. This was the year that the sophomores grew up and out.

Sophs show involvement

Getting involved was a good thing to do, and sometimes as a freshman it was scary to jump in and get involved. When the freshmen sprouted into sophomores, however, a little of the fear was gone. Sophomores were involved in such things as football, basketball, track, swimming and wrestling. The girls were involved in cheerleading, Viketes, and basketball. The sophomore class was one that enjoyed getting involved.

The sophomore class showed good participation in Student Council sponsored activities such as Crazy Day and Boot Day. Sophomores seemed to be really interested in goofing off and acting silly. The sophomores showed a good turn-out at the student council workshop, and they always showed a good turn-out at sports events. It seemed that the sophomores received first place in every spirit contest held because their names were often heard. If all the classes would have been as spirited as the sophomores, Parkview would have had the very most spirited school.

Everyone always had a special place to socialize. The sophomore spot, when the weather was nice, was on the patio. When students walked in from the parking lot they could always see the sophomores getting rowdy and raising cain in preparation for the gruelling day ahead of them. Now that they were past the freshman stage, the sophomores relaxed and enjoyed themselves without too much trouble from upperclassmen.

People always seemed to have a lot to talk about when they got together and what better place to do it than the lunchroom? In between bites one could always hear a sophomore gabbing about his or her latest love, the exciting football games and basketball games, and getting his or her license. When freshmen became sophmores they finally discovered that they should send out for lunch or bring their own because they had qualms about eating schools lunches. Sophomore conversations always held interest, so if you hadn't overheard one, you should have been listening. One just never knew what kind of gossip and excitement he might have discovered. You see, the sophomore year is the time when people really start having fun.

Individuals add pizazz

Lifestyles vary greatly in the class of '85. Many personalities added to the color of the sophomore class. Students were involved in school sponsored groups or organizations while others found their fulfillment in extracurricular activities.

Student Council helped hold the class together. By winning the holiday hall decorating contest, the sophomores proved that they are an important aspect of the student body. The class of '85 was also a major factor in campus clean-up, and they helped improve over-all spirit within Parkview's walls.

Strange counsels sophomores

Sophomore counselor Mrs. Jan Strange has been a counselor at Parkview for six years. During the entire time she has been here, she has held group counseling sessions for her class. She goes into the classrooms and asks the students if they would be interested in a small group counseling session, in which students with similar problems can come together and openly discuss these problems and compare experiences with people in the same situation. The groups met once a week for six weeks three separate times. The themes for these three sessions were divorce and kids from broken homes, loss, which included both death and loss of a friend, and self-confidence or self-image. The turn-out at these three sessions was very good. Mrs. Strange also gave individual counseling sessions. Mrs. Strange said, "A counselor's job is not all scheduling and paperwork; there is also a lot of counseling going on."

Freshmen challenge a new, exciting year

Starting high school was a challenge for most freshmen with many changes from junior high. At the beginning of the year, getting around the school seemed impossible, but by the end of the year they knew the school very well.

The freshmen learned to adjust to the longer day and the added responsibilities. New to them was seventh hour. In junior high, when they were late they were scolded; this year they made up tardies in seventh hour. There was more homework and class work so freshman had to buckle down so that they could keep good grades and prepare for the next three years.

The freshmen didn't spend all their time studying. Social life increased also. They started to do more on the weekends. Since they were a year away from driving, they went to the local arcades, to a movie, to a friend's house, or just stayed home and did something with their families.

Getting involved with extracurricular activities was one way of making school more fun. Going to various Viking games, learning favorite chants, and getting with the beat of George of the Jungle showed their school spirit.

Being a freshman was a challenge: one that was fun, hard and exciting, but after being the lower classman, things could only get better.

Stiles guides freshmen

The freshmen weren't the only ones that were new as their counselor, Mrs. Karen Stiles, was also new to Parkview. Mrs. Stiles said that she loves Parkview and all the students and feels the job, which was her first year at a high school after part-time at Study Junior High School, proved to be a real challenge.

"A challenge is what I wanted and I was ready for it," Mrs. Stiles said.

Deciding to go into counseling had always been a long-range goal for Mrs. Stiles. She said that when she went to her high school counselor he was very little help, so Mrs. Stiles wanted to improve counseling by helping students more.

Mrs. Stiles said there are many advantages and disadvantages in counseling. She felt the main advantage was affecting students' lives in a positive manner and trying to guide them in a way to make them better people.

"The only disadvantage is the paperwork. It usually comes all at one time, and it takes time away from the students," Mrs. Stiles stated.

Mrs. Stiles was born in Long Island, New York. She went to high school and junior college in Pennsicola, Florida. She went her last two years at Evangel and obtained her masters at SMSU.

"A counselor should be neutral and objective to help with their problems. I try to be there for the students all the time," said Mrs. Stiles.

OUR ACADEMIC LIVES

Studying. Whether it was doing a research paper in Classical Lit., or just trying to get algebra done, studying seemed to be endless. PHS students excelled in their own interests, and when it came to academics and classes, settled down and got things done. Teachers tried to make the hour interesting by offering field trips, such as FBLA'S tour of the police station and the Coca-Cola Company, or inviting speakers to the Liberty and Law classes. Some teachers permitted "Dr Pepper breaks" to let up on the monotony of everyday routine. There were still complaints about the bordeom, but it soon paid off as students scored high in national honors. Seniors Julie Hill and Helen Vanderbilt were among 327 National Merit semi-finalists in the state of Missouri. The National Honor Society was an organization that honored students selected for their character, service, scholarship, and leadership.

Vo-Tech gives experience

Vocational-Industrial Education was a three-hour class designed to teach students skills in jobs that were an alternative for taking college. The main purpose of Vo-Tech was to provide quality training for gainful employment.

The class was for area high schools and was divided into two sessions, morning and afternoon. From Parkview there were 50 morning students and 72 afternoon students.

Vo-Tech had a staff of 40 qualified teachers who have worked successfully in the skill that they taught. It also had a full-time placement person who worked with employers and students to achieve maximum employment for students. Good attendance was a must since missing one day was missing three hours. It prepared students for real employment.

Vo-Tech had classes such as computer programming, welding, data processing, auto body repair, auto mechanics, electronics, drafting, business skills and much more.

For students not planning to go to college, the class recommended enrolling as juniors and continuing for the second year. Since this was almost making a career decision, there were preparatory classes recommended and enrolling students were advised to choose wisely.

COE, Special ed individualize

Special education included classes established for students who need more attention than they would receive in regular classrooms. The deaf students of PHS had interpreters that went to their classes with them. Students felt these programs were a pleasant addition to the school.

Being a student and a working person was made available by a course called Cooperative Occupational Education. Having COE meant more than just getting out of school to work. It taught students how to fill out forms and figure out income tax returns. The most important part was learning how to deal with the outside world in a business-like manner.

Health-related classes energize

Three classes offered at Parkview taught students the basic fundamentals of life as an adult. Physical education, drivers' education, and health offered this knowledge.

Physical education was open to any grade level. It offered three different types of classes including individual sports, team sports, outdoor living, and a class offered only to seniors called Physical Education V. In all of these classes students participated in the learning of basic physical fitness.

Health was a required course for all freshmen. In this class students learned about the human body and measures of helpful experiences in maintenance of good personal health.

Drivers' education was open to sophomores and others depending on age and birth date. The class was offered to teach students fundamentals of driving and the laws of the road. In this class students participated in regular class learning, simulated driving, and on-the-road driving.

Practice, arts teach skills

Remember the old stereotype that home ec was for girls and industrial arts was for boys? That thought no longer was true. Home ec taught the basics of home care such as cleaning, cooking, and sewing. Industrial arts taught the fundamentals of machinery and the construction of building houses. With both of these courses and others closely related, students could prepare for the outside world.

Math and science: for the future

Computers were not something of the future for the math and science departments. Both areas obtained computers. Not all the classes used computers. Consumer math, micro computer math, trigonometry and math analysis were typical math classes. Science covered a broad area. Dissecting animals, lab experiments, and Mr. Hawk's infamous Monday quizzes were common in the science area.

In January the science class traveled to the new community hospital. One hundred students from Parkview attended. The guest speaker was astronaut Gordon Cooper. He spoke on medicine in space. Mr. Cooper also answered questions submitted by the students. On display were models of what astronauts used in their space travel. There were models of the foods and medicines used in flight, and a sample of the training required before becoming an astronaut. The science students also toured the new facilities, including some of the most updated equipment available. Les Dean said, "I wanted to see the astronaut.

Business, social studies connect

Studying the events of history provides insight for the future. The many social studies classes covered most aspects of history. The World Leaders class studied important political people.

Taking a required class seemed like drudgery, but Liberty and Law students did not seem to think so. A parole officer visited Mr. Ralph Smith's class to talk about his job. He explained what his job included, the pay he received, and some of his experiences. Another visitor came to Mr. Smith's class. Troop D Public Information Officer Sam Kuhnlee told stories about drug abuse in hopes of making the students realize the present problem.

The business education department created a successful way to learn how to become a big business executive: begin with personal typing and introduction to business. Students advanced to such subjects as business typing, salesmanship, business management, Accounting I and II, office procedures, Business Law I and II and shorthand.

The business department sends people into the world and has produced some business executives in the Springfield area.

Basic skills augment creativity

"Saludos de la clase de español" — greetings from the Spanish class. In the foreign language department Spanish classes traveled to area grade schools to teach students about Mexican and South American culture. Three days a week for almost two months they traveled to the schools.

The students were graded by the classroom teacher on how well they taught, preparation of class plans, enthusiasm, and control of the class.

The class plan included Spanish food, teaching the grade school students to sing "Happy Birthday" in Spanish, and celebrating Valentines Day the way the Spanish do. "I thought it gave me a good chance to develop my Spanish skills and see what it is really like to teach," said Zina Bartolotta.

Learning the basics of English helped to establish a background for the advanced literature classes. The American literature classes read such books as Moby Dick, and The Scarlet Letter. American literature students were also required to write a research paper. A list of topics was provided by the teacher.

Chris,
You are going to be a big Jr. next year and you have got to be alot wilder than this year to keep up with the jr tradition we have set. You have been a fun guy to watch get drunk and I'll never forget the time you were hanging out D.H's car w/a crowbar, that was so funny. I hope that you and Stephanie work out really good and everything happens for the best.
Love Ya,
Ruffy

Art, music make PHS a class act

Ideas started with color design and materials for Parkview art students. From Applied Art all the way through tough Art III, certain principles were used. Art I classes worked with kaleidoscopes in design, used color schemes with a more modern look, and drew scrolls with images seen only in a subconscious state. They were also responsible for the brighter, more colorful, light entering PHS through the stained glass mounted in some windows around school. Art II expanded on principles learned in Art I and prepared for the undertaking of Art III. An effort to modernize and give Parkview a new look was the attempt of Art III students with hanging of acrylic canvas paintings around the school which they worked on the first half of the year. Second semester was used for sculpting with the hope to also display sculpture around the school. Applied Art took these ideas of art but put them in a three-dimensional form such as clay, metal or fibers. After learning principles and putting inspiration into action, all the art classes brought their works together twice during the year for an art exhibit in the Student Center for all to see their achievement of the year.
Music students also took a variety of classes to sharpen their talents. For the vocal music student, Chorus I and II and choir was offered. Instrumental musicians had a choice of band, advanced band, or advanced orchestra.

Administrators guide system

Rising to meet the fearful foe of a limited budget, changing harder classes to an honor class, and making job changes, the R-12 administration managed to keep Parkview and the school system running smoothly. A one-cent sales tax was passed during the 1982-83 school year, with funds of a half cent of that going for public schools. "Giving credit where credit is due" was a statement under much consideration when it came to the subject of classes such as trigonometry and advanced English classes that are harder. To recognize this, an honors system was established. Parkview's new principal, Dr. Dan Beach, showed great support and much enthusiasm for all of Parkview's enterprises.

Offices being changed along with titles was a major undertaking of the administration to even the work load. Instead of one assistant principal there were three: Mr. Phil Jenkins, assistant principal for administrative services and classrooms, Mr. Mike Kohr, assistant principal for pupil services, and Mrs. Betty Schuck, assistant principal for instructional services.

Support personnel ease life

Lending a helping hand, preparing a meal, sending or letting students go places, keeping students safe and helping when students were sick is a great description of what parents do, but away from home, at school, these tasks were done by the custodians, cooks, secretaries, security guard, and nurse. Their job was to render such services to students and they were often the unseen component of an efficiently run school. Jobs ranged from putting the flag up in the morning and taking it down in the afternoon to making hot lunches for around 700 kids and staff.

Mr. Koechner, the security guard, may not have known a student's name, but he could match a car with a face. Secretaries went beyond just knowing names. It seemed almost psychic how they could tell a student more about himself than he knew. A thermometer going from the nurse's hand to the flushed, sickly face of a student was a normal sight. Long hours were spent by these people for the benefit of all Parkview students in every possible way.

Dating, parties, and friends highlight

OUR SOCIAL LIVES

From midnight movies, to football games, to dating, our social lives at PHS were varied. Some of these times — such as falling down at the homecoming dance, or going out on that first date — may have seemed awkward or even painful but being with friends made the times special, memorable, and fun. Parkview students spent the majority of the week making plans for the weekend.

How they spent the time varied from season to season. During the fall, attending football games, enjoying field parties, and going to a friend's house to socialize dominated the weekends. In the winter, most Friday nights were spent going to basketball games and then hitting the midnight movie at the Fox Theater. When spring finally rolled around, everything moved outside. Plans for prom and graduation were the main concerns for most seniors, while everyone else looked forward to spring break and summer vacation.

Chris —
well guy, here we are, another year gone - And we made it through English and Wilson - it was a pretty fun class - I'm glad we have become friends - it was fun at the river that one Sunday with all four of us. we'll have to do that some more. Or how about when your mom came home. And thanks for taking me home from Andy's party !! have a great summer-hope to see ya -

Laura,
Shelli Reynolds

Chris - Well summer's here again. This year has been really fun. All the parties and stuff were really great. You are so sweet & nice and I'm glad you and Steph have worked everything out and are still together. I hope you have a nice summer, and maybe I'll see you at some Parties. Love, Edie

Economic conditions affect social spending

Parkview students spent their time and money in different ways. With gas finally down below a dollar a gallon people spent more time making themselves look better with haircuts and new clothes. Movies, as always, proved to be a good way to blow money on weekends. And, sometimes on Fridays, when spring fever got to be too much, students would break the monotony any way they could.

Girls' Golf team members — Deanna Applegate, Kim Applegate, Cindy Shook, Tina Murray, Vicki Woodall, and Coach Jerry Gobetz.

Girls' Golf Team: State Champions

Winning the 1982 Girls' Golf State Championship was the goal for the girls' golf team. The team consisted of Tina Murray, Kim Applegate, Vicki Woodall, and Cindy Shook.

Ten schools had entrants in the individual medalist category. Kim received third overall; Cindy and Tina tied for eleventh place overall.

The golf team had the same four girls going to state for the previous two years. They finished second in state last year.

FBLA shadowing: a great success

Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) instigated a new project. Over 130 members participated in shadowing careers. The members left school for one half day to visit 26 different career people.

The business participants included Heer's Department Store, Cox Medical Center, Boatman's Springfield National Bank, and the Paul Mueller Co. "It was really a good experience to see how the business was run and it made me realize the extent of the job," said Amy Pyle.

Left: During the FBLA shadowing project Mrs. Joyce Pyle explains some of the aspects of teaching to Suzanne Poddig.

Merit finalists: Hill and Vanderbilt

Two outstanding seniors from Parkview were named National Merit semi-finalists. Julie Hill and Helen Vanderbilt were two out of the 327 qualifying in the state of Missouri.

Both girls have been active in Student Council, Young People against Cancer, and Canterbury Club. Julie was editor-in-chief of The Parkviewer. Helen was a debater and Latin Club member.

Each girl had an exciting summer. Helen spent the summer in Japan on a Youth for Understanding scholarship. Julie spent her summer at Northwestern University of Chicago.

For 1982-83, May 27 ends

OUR WAY OF LIFE

For nine months we have been together at Parkview and although many of us will only leave for the summer, others will never return. Parkview, however, has made its imprint on all of us. We have grown together individually, academically, and socially. Our Way of Life has become the Parkview way of life. So even if we remain, or never return, a part of us will always linger, for WE ARE PARKVIEW.

Above: Reflecting on the past four years, Jeff Kahler, David Vise, and Theresa Redfearn not only graduated but also had fun.

Right: Wearily, Kim Grace and her bookmate go to the next class before the bell rings on one of the last days of the '82-'83 year.

Chris,
Well here we are at the end of another year, what can I say? We've had a lot of good times. You're my all time best friend and I hope we stay best friends always. We've come a long way since 8th grade, girl wise and partying wise. This year has been the best so far, but I'm sure we'll have even better ones in the future. We've done alot together, drinking and all, and tokin with Dave, that was the funniest, getting messed up was great! Remember Matts party? And slidin down the stairs, fallin' down and getting up, (falling down was funner!) I'm glad we finally got some P.!. I hope you and Steph work out for the best, don't turn out like me and J.M. We'll have a great time this summer swimming at my house, and imagin the partys! It'll be great! I sure hope you have that big party out at your dads! OK and do remember Super Bowl Sun. Ha Ha? That was fun. So was football on Thursdays, hopefully we'll do better next year. (10-0) Maybe if you're lucky they'll let you play some Defense! We'd have a blast! The end is here but we'll be back next year and we'll be even ROWDYER than ever! I sure hope we stay best friends and drinkin buddies too! Ha Ha Well so long and I'll see you tonight at the party! Have fun! Don't get too much snatch! Ha Ha

P.S. Stay cool and don't stay a virgin too long, just kiddin we all know you're not! Best Friends forever
Dickel

Christopher Reed (LOVE OF MY LIFE)

I'm so glad school is ending. I'd die if it didn't end soon. I'm also glad that you have been there by me. You've honestly fulfilled the last half of my junior year. What would it have been like without you? You've taught me the meaning of trust. I've hurt you so many times and yet you keep on putting all your trust right back into me. I love you for that & I only hope that now I can show you what all that means to me. We have the summer to share & get to know each other so much better. We think we know - but there's still so much to learn. All the talks & tears - and even thinking if it's worth the trouble. But I know it is! And I wouldn't trade you or all the times we've spent together for the world! By the way - turn to pages 27, 29 & 114 to see a real Stud! Anyway - thanks for putting up with me at Eagle Lodge & Carolyn Luna's party - (which if you would have stopped me I might still be with E.D. Barksdale.) The LPA was an interesting evening & not one soon forgotten. I'll have to say we were blown away! All our late night talks that made us zombies the next day were usually worth it just to hear each other breathe or something. Yeah - right. Freezing at track meets & listening to you get mad about throwing terrible was all WONDERFUL!! I love being part of you!!!!! I hope that someday we can build a life together that will never fall apart. Once that promise to be there forever is made - you're stuck with me. I just want you to know that.

"If you pick your nose, you pick your friends nose if ya pick your butt, ya pick your friends butt and that's real nasty!!! Just like Sip-n-Flip Burgers"

That was an interlude from Rosie. I'm lost. Anyway. Thanks for the wonderful times you've given to me this year. There's more to come - I'm sure. I only hope my mom understands a little better that I love you! She tends to make things difficult most the time - but you've got to learn to put up with it. At least for now. Hey - someone loves you & don't forget it!

Love always -
Steph

Chris,

Well the year is finally over, its been a long one but its been great! Thanks for all the fun times cruizing in your car, jammin' out, and our secret [redacted] oops rendevous at the drive-in. You've always been such a great friend and you keep getting better. Thanks for all the help with Randy B. and Mark H. (even though you hated him) We've shared so many secrets together; things no one else in this world will ever know except us. It's nice to know we both have someone to trust with our secrets. You given me so much advice, I would have been better off using it once in a while, and if I could do it all over again I probally would. Our friendship means the world to me and it always will. Thanks for the memories. I'm looking forward to all the good times to come this summer and the next 2 years. Have fun + stay out of trouble!

Love you-
Tracy J.

Chris
well we have had a great time this year and this summer is going to be better. You are a great friend and one of the funnest guys to partie with because your nuts. Next year we are going to have to kick some butt next year in football and in school because we are really two of the biggest guys in this school and I know we are the baddest your friend

always David Hallan

Chris, It doesn't seem like I've known you for 4 years, it's been a long time since Jr. High! Thanks for keeping me entertained at the Joplin track meet! You're a great athlete & a super guy. You & Steph have fun but behave! Maybe will double sometime! I'll never forgive you for putting the bump on my nose from Liz's pool! Have a good summer! I'll see ya'! Love, Jennifer Garwitz

Chris,
Get your car painted and maybe everybody will quit runnin' into you. Next time I fix ya the bird ya better be lookin. Peace. Have this summer
Trevor Elliott

Chris,

Hey Gorgeous! You've really been a great friend this year, it hasn't been as boring in Geometry either. Have fun with Stephanie this summer! I know you will. I'm glad you found someone like I found in Tom. You should just be glad that you have more time.

Chris, It has been fun this year in ~~English~~ History. I hope to have you in some of my classes next year. See you this summer.

"85" Jo Jo Fiebig

Listen, if you ever in a rut and you need any advise just call me. Ok? I'm glad things worked out the way you wanted - and don't worry about David!! I'm sure I'll be seeing you at the "Parties" this summer! Love ya'

Nwin

CHRIS,

I CAN'T BELIEVE IT! JUST TWO MORE YEARS AND WE'LL BE OUT! IT DOESN'T SEEM POSSIBLE! JUST YESTERDAY WE WERE JAMMIN' AT JARRETT!! WE'VE HAD SOME FUN TIMES THESE PAST 4 YEARS. SEEMS LIKE ALL WE DO IN OUR HISTORY CLASSES IS ~~HATE~~ THROW & FLIP PAPER WODS! OUCH! I HOPE THAT WE CAN STAY FRIENDS FOR A LONG TIME. I WISH YOU A LOT OF LUCK IN FOOTBALL! YOU'VE GOT A LOT OF POTENTIAL! YOU'VE ALSO GOT A LOT OF TALENT. USE IT WISELY. HOPEFULLY YOU'LL GET TO GO TO CAMP. IT WOULD REALLY BE FUN. WELL, IT SEEMS LIKE I'VE WROTE A BOOK BUT REALLY JUST A FEW LINES. SEE YA' THIS SUMMER & GOOD LUCK IN EVERYTHING!!! ...

FRIENDS,
ROD "MAN" McCANN

Chris,
Well it's been fun in English & History, it's been a different having you in class, good luck in football and with car, stay cool and keep pattyin'.
Matt Young

Chris,
Hey Big Guy. My kindergartin buddy! Geometry has been, well, an experience, well, I hope we both pass. Call me this summer & tell me if you failed 'cause if you do I probably will too! I'm so surprised we haven't gotten in trouble for all the notes that have been passed back & forth! Well, if your lucky maybe we'll have some classes together next year. If not, MAYBE I'll say 'Hi' to you in the hall!
Love ya
Kayla Beadle

IN THE MAKING

From August 28, 1982 to February 24, 1983 the Viking Log staff spent 240 hours in Room 410. We designed layouts, cropped pictures, wrote copy, headlines and cutlines until we reached our goal of putting Parkview's way of life into 176 pages. Thanks to Taylor Publishing Company, our efforts went into print. The Viking Log was printed on Enamel 80 paper with copy in Melior type in 8 and 10 point settings. Our headlines and subheads were in Tiffany, Broadway, Tramp, Impact, Pharoh, and Ronda type. We could not have produced such a successful yearbook without the help of Baldwin Studios class pictures, Comstock Studio group pictures, Taylor Publishing Company, Joe Williams, account administrator, and the PHS administration, faculty, and student body. A special thanks to our advisor Mrs. Judy Wilson.

Chris,
Things have changed so much between us since the 8th grade and even though I hardly ever see you any more I still think about you and still remember all the great times we had! You have been a great friend to me and I love you for that!
I'll never forget that day when my car wouldn't start at the gas station and I loaned you that dollar to get to Dickies. I know how much you enjoyed the "slide show" at my house so we'll have to do it again but please don't laugh this time! I hope I'll get to see you over the summer - I'm sure I will! Come over anytime to see me!
Love ya always!
